PATTERN INFORMATION

The Sunshine Bucket Hat is a top down crocheted hat that uses intarsia crochet to create the rays of the sun at the brim. Starting with a magic circle, stitches are added in the round with increases each round to create the crown. Once the desired measurement for the size you've chosen is reached, rounds continue with and without increases to create the body of the hat. The brim is created with increase rounds followed by intarsia rounds to create the rays of the sun.

INFO AND TIPS

Ch 2 at the beginning of each dc round and ch 1 at the beginning of each sc round.

Beginning ch does not count as st. Slip stitch to the first st of that round.

For both sizes, follow rounds to and including round 8.

When working intarsia rounds at the brim, the color not in use is carried throughout the round (crocheted over).

When changing colors, work the stitch as you normally would, but when pulling through the last loops to complete the stitch, use the new color.

When the first st of the next round calls for a new color, complete the sl st at the end of the current round with the new color, so your next round ch will start with the new color.
